

TWO BIG FIGHTS TO BE DECIDED BY CONGRESS

Most Spectacular Battle
To Be Waged This Week
Involves Impeachment
of English.

STECK-BROOKHART FIREWORKS READY

Stephens To Lead Spirited Fight Against Oust-
ing of Senator Brook-
hart From Rolls.

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—Spectacular dramas were destined to be written around two issues which
finally will reach the floors of congress this week.

The issues are the impeachment of Federal Judge George W. English,
of the eastern district of Illinois, and
the election contest between Senator
Smith W. Brookhart (republican),
Iowa, and his democratic opponent,
Daniel F. Steck.

The English case is to be taken up by the house Tuesday under a program calling for a final vote by Wednesday. If impeachment is voted,
that fact will be certified to the senate, which will hold a special early
summer session for the trial.

Majority and minority reports on the Steck-Brookhart contest are to be submitted to the senate tomorrow
and, since the case is one of the highest privilege, Chairman Ernst, of the senate elections committee, is expected
to call it up for debate soon after his return from the Kentucky republican state convention, which is to be held Tuesday.

The elections committee stands
overwhelmingly for the ousting of Senator Brookhart, but Senator Stephens, democrat, Mississippi, will file
a minority report and lead the spirited fight that is to be waged to have Senator Brookhart confirmed in his right to a senate seat.

Before this election contest case
comes up the senate will resume debate on the Italian debt settlement,
with Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, opening the argument for the opposition with a long prepared speech.

Monday will be given over by the house to the consideration of miscellaneous bills. Thursday the house will take up the last of the annual supply
measures, that for the legislative department of the government, with a vote coming probably Friday.

Congressional committees are to be fairly active during the week, with the special senate committee resuming the tariff commission investigation Tuesday. The Muscle Shoals joint committee will continue to wrestle with its problem of leasing the big Tennessee river plant and the joint postal
committee will resume its hearings
Tuesday with a view to recommending
permanent postal rates.

Agricultural relief measures will occupy the attention of both the senate and house agriculture committees. The senate body will hold hearings on the Dickenson bill and will undertake to hitch that to the house cooperative
marketing measures, on which hearings already have been held.

INTEREST NOW CENTERS IN PROHIBITION HEARINGS.

Washington, March 28.—Prohibition will be the big subject in congress beginning the week of April 5
when the beer hearings begin before
the senate judiciary committee. Wets
and dries are now arranging witnesses
for the first big general airing of prohibition since the Volstead act became effective in January, 1920. These hearings will constitute a fairly comprehensive inventory of prohibition
enforcement and the effects of the 18th amendment.

As the wets are bending all of their strength to show that prohibition has been a failure and the dries on the contrary are determined to demonstrate that it has been a success these hearings will have an influential effect on the future. If the wets make a case, modification of the Volstead
act will be brought somewhat nearer—
though it still will be some distance
away. If the dries can effectively
answer the wets, the grip of the Volstead act will be tightened materially
and prospects of modification will be even more remote than they now appear.

Plus and Minus Buying

If you should pass up the Atlanta stores to go shopping in another city, the cost of what you buy is plus railroad fares
both ways, and probably hotel bills, cost of meals and tips to porters and servants.

Atlanta merchants buy from the same wholesalers, jobbers and manufacturers as the leading merchants of other cities. Their merchandise is as good and as up-to-date, and frequently their prices are lower.

Skilled buyers secure the very finest on the market, and the very best values are here for your selection. Therefore, read the advertisements in The Constitution every morning, learn of these great bargains, and buy at home.

55,000 HOME LOVERS SEE 'HOME BEAUTIFUL' EXHIBITS ON SUNDAY

STEADY STREAMS POUR INTO HOMES ON OPENING DAY

Nine "Homes Beautiful"
Mecca for Thousands Who Admire Furnish-
ings and Arrangements.

HOMES OPEN DAILY THROUGHOUT WEEK

Hostesses and Officials Will Greet Visitors, Answering Questions and Offering Suggestions.

Approximately 55,000 Atlanta home
lovers spent a portion of Sunday in visiting the nine homes in the "Home Beautiful" exhibit as guests of The Constitution and cooperating merchants. So great were crowds at intervals that it was necessary to close
the homes for brief periods to enable
thorough inspection to be made.

Sunday attendance figures exceeded
by more than 20,000 the number officially checked on the opening of last year's exhibit. Throughout the day long lines of anxious visitors
awaited their turns to inspect the
model homes and at many homes the congestion was so great that the special traffic officers found it difficult
to untangle cars and regulate traffic.

The success of the second annual
"Home Beautiful" is more than assured in the opinion of those in charge, the tremendous crowds which surged through the nine homes Sunday, inspecting minutely the furnishings, decorations and trimmings, asking hostesses and other officials in the homes many questions about this
and that feature, exceeding the highest expectations of everyone.

Officials Pleased.
Mrs. R. H. Thomas, nationally-
known home decorator of Richmond, Va., who was brought here especially
for this exhibit, was highly pleased Sunday night. Throughout the day
she had answered questions of thousands of home lovers who wanted to know various details.

Five of these homes are located in Avalon Estates, and one each in Brookwood Hills, Druid Hills, Garden
Hills and Morningstar. All homes will be open to the public daily through next Sunday from 10 o'clock in the afternoon to 10 o'clock at night.

Full information as to decorations,
furnishings and all other features
which the average home lover wants
to know will be furnished by hostesses
and officials at each home, and everyone is invited to ask questions of any nature concerning the nine "homes
beautiful."

Units of the exhibit, prices, owners,
and builders of the nine homes follow:

- Valued at $28,000; located at 176
Lullwater road, in Druid Hills; built
and loaned by L. E. Bennett, home builder.
- Valued at $20,000; located at 44
Wakefield drive, in Brookwood Hills;
built and loaned by Burdett Realty
company.
- Valued at $20,000; located at 5
Avalon drive, in Avalon Estates; built
by Wagar & Co., and loaned by Avalon Estates.
- Valued at $18,000; located at 215
Bolling road, in Garden Hills; built
and loaned by Garden Hills corporation.
- Valued at $15,000; located at 3
Berkley road, in Avalon Estates; built
and loaned by Avalon Estates.
- Valued at $13,500; located at 40
Dartmouth avenue, in Avalon Estates;
built by Wagar & Co., home builders, and
loaned by Avalon Estates.
- Valued at $13,000; located at 118
Sherwood drive, in Morningstar; built
by Joe Walker, home builder, and loaned by Morningstar.

Woman Divorces Husband To Let Him Wed Her Rival

ROMANCE OF MANICURIST COMES TO END

By Leased Wire to The Constitution and
The Chicago Tribune.

New York, March 28.—Until March 19 pretty Lena Lanza, 20, manicurist
in a New Haven, Conn., barber shop,
was legally the wife of Philip Yale
Eastman, Amherst graduate, successful business man and son of the Rev.
G. P. Eastman, pastor of the Highland Congregational church, Orange, N. J.

Today young Eastman was spending
a second honeymoon in Atlantic City
with a second bride, the former Susan Spencer Beach, a graduate of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. East-
man and Miss Beach were married Friday by the groom's father in the home of Miss Beach's mother, Mrs.
Frank S. Conwell, in Greenwich Village.

And in New Haven, the little manicurist made a dramatic announcement.
Two weeks after Eastman eloped
with her, said the manicurist, he met
his present bride and fell in love
with her at first sight.

Miss Lanza, who has resumed her
maiden name, said she voluntarily
procured a divorce so her former husband might marry Miss Beach.

"I wanted to step out of the picture," she said, "and to make things
easy for them to get married. I got my divorce March 19 on the grounds of desertion. I am surprised they waited so long before being married."

Miss Beach is 22; Eastman is in the early 30's. He is a partner of Eastman Brothers, of Orange, a firm
specializing in antique reproductions.
Miss Lanza was only 17 when she eloped with Eastman, just out of a naval aviation uniform in 1921.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD FOR LEGISLATORS; BOND ACTION NEAR

Two General Bills Come Up Today as Solons Begin Third Week of Present Session.

Two general bills will come before
the house today when the lower
branch of the assembly ushers in the third week of the present extra session. Around the turn looms one of the outstanding items for consideration—the proposed $23,000,000 bond issue for education—on which a vote
is scheduled to be had on Wednesday.

The first bill for consideration today is one to impose an occupational tax of $10 on insurance agents. The other would authorize an appropriation for the support of the veterans'
service bureau.

When those two items are cleared
from the calendar the house will have exhausted the special order of business set up last Thursday. In the last two days of the week the house
passed five general bills and local bills.

Road Bond Vote Soon.
Following disposal this week of education bond proposals, road bond measures now pending will reach the floor and proponents believe that a vote will be taken early next week.

The proposed $70,000,000 bond issue
continues to occupy the interest of
practically every member of the house.
Factional lines have been sharply
drawn and all forces maneuvering
for strength.

Considerable emphasis is being placed by advocates on the fact that votes for or against state bonds for roads does not necessarily imply that
voters favor the particular measure,
but that a voter does recognize the necessity of permitting voters of the state to express an opinion, and in voting for bonds simply votes to permit constituents to vote.

Road bond advocates are finding
this effective and grow more and more confident of the success of their cause.

80-YEAR-OLD MAN SHOTS KINSMAN

Green McKerley Placed
in Lawrenceville Jail
Charged With Killing
Kinsman, Ode McKerley.

Lawrenceville, Ga., March 28.— (Special).—Green McKerley was placed in jail here this afternoon
charged with the killing of Ode Mc-Kerley, near Duluth, today. It was reported by the Duluth officers that Ode McKerley was fighting a woman
who is said to have been living at Green McKerley's house and that a negro was the only eye-witness to the shooting.

McKerley, who did the shooting, is about 80 years old, and is said to have used a shotgun at close range,
the load tearing off the back of the
victim's head.

Ode McKerley is said to have been
about 40 years of age and was related to the old man.

The elder McKerley is under indictment for having whisky, but on account of his age and decrepit condition, Judge Stark suspended sentence
during the March term of Gwinnett
superior court.

ENFORCING DRY LAW HOPELESS ASSERT AGENTS

Great Drive Results in Destroying Thirty-Two
Still, but Others
Spring Up.

CORN WHISKY MOST PLENTIFUL

At Least Twenty Crews
of Agents Would Be Needed To Watch Roads,
Say Officials.

BY ROBERT D. LUSK.

Washington, March 28.—While
wets and dries labor day and night
preparing for the wine and beer hearings before the senate judiciary committee next week, the nation's capital continues to consume gin and
whisky at a startling rate.

Local enforcement officers have announced that Washington's supply of whisky has been reduced by 1,100,400
quarts in the last month without
greatly disturbing the illegal traffic.
If this liquor were distributed equally among the inhabitants, including
congressmen and government officials,
it has been pointed out, each person
would receive a little more than two quarts.

The greatest drive against Washington's liquor source since passage of the Volstead law resulted in the capture during a month of 32 stills with
a capacity of 100 gallons a day each,
according to estimates of prohibition
officials. Assuming that these stills operated for three months, which agents say is the average life of a
still, they "might have produced
1,100,400 quarts of whisky."

"But the stills spring up again just
about as fast as they are destroyed,"
dry agents complain.

Only a few moonshiners were taken by officers during these raids.
Moonshiners, it was said, were the most illusive class of prohibition offenders and usually started operating
a new plant when the old were destroyed.

Corn whisky, officials contend, constitutes about 75 per cent of the liquor consumed in Washington. The remaining 25 per cent is made up of gin, alleged Scotch whisky and a little "red stuff."

The moonshine is manufactured
principally in southern Maryland and transported to Washington in automobiles, capable of outdistancing enforcement officers in cheaper machines.

Captain Guy E. Burlingame, in charge of the "flying squadron" which attempts to patrol the roads against
these run-runners, has announced
that to guard the city against importation of moonshine whisky would require at least 20 crews of policemen and prohibition officers and as many fast automobiles.

"There are 80 roads leading into
this city," Burlingame said. "Not one of these roads are being used by
the liquor men, but more of them
are used than we can watch. What we need is more men, more machines
and good drivers. If we had these, I think we could just about dry up this city."

SALVATION ARMY LEADER PREPARES TO VISIT AMERICA

New York, March 28.—(AP)—General Bramwell Booth, world leader of Salvation Army forces and son of William Booth, the founder, will come to this country to conduct territorial congresses in Chicago and New York
city next month, the army headquarters here announced today.

General Booth is expected to arrive
from England about April 14. He will proceed immediately to Chicago for
the first congress, to be participated
in by representatives of central and western states.

The New York congress will be in session from April 24 to 29. It will bring together officers from 22 eastern and southern states.

Itself to be caught. It can be painted
black, under protest.

At 10 o'clock the candidate appears
with his cat. "Very well," he is told,
"such cruelty (for either capturing or painting the creature) shall reap its own reward. You shall eat this cat
stewed."

The cat is taken from him, and he is shut in a dark room, "to meditate and repent." The cat is released. A rabbit, bought at market, is stewed
instead and served to the trembling
freshman.

If he resists, he is coerced into yielding. If he still refuses, he is returned to the "dungeon" to "bend his proud spirit."

Not infrequently eating the stew
produces nausea, through the psychological effects of the thought that he
is eating the flesh of the cat.

Dr. Dunn intends tomorrow to make inquiry in the vicinity of the scene of the alleged cruelties to the cats and
will seek to learn the identity of those who may have had a part in them.
(College authorities also will be enlisted in the investigation.)

CHILEAN GOVERNMENT REFUSES TO SUSPEND PLEBISCITE PROGRAM

Wife of Plastic Surgeon Held on Bad Check Charge

HUSBAND AIDS HER DESPITE ELOPEMENT

New York, March 28.—Mrs. Doris Berne, the personable 29-year-old wife
of Dr. Luis Berne, the plastic surgeon who supplied semi-nude noses to Jack Dempsey and Fanny Brice
among other notables, was arrested Sunday on charges of passing worthless checks in Florida.

With her were arrested Elliott
Jaffe, her brother, and Paul Rosen,
with whom she is said to have eloped
to Florida last year. In addition to the forgery complaints, Jaffe faces the charge of illegally possessing a revolver
and Rosen of violating the Mann
act.

A warrant obtained in Miami, Fla.,
by three St. Petersburg banks accused the trio of passing checks valued at $35,000.

Dr. Berne, who told reporters he

KELLOGG IS TOLD CHILE IS UNABLE TO MEET WISHES

U. S. Secretary Had Asked Postponement Pending Proposed Conference
of Two Countries.

PLEBISCITE DELAY CALLED DANGEROUS

Peru Still Refuses To Take Part in Registration of Voters in Tacna-Arica Row.

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—The Chilean government has declined to concur in the suggestion of Secretary
Kellogg that the plebiscite to settle
the Tacna-Arica dispute be suspended
during the proposed conference of representatives of the two countries in Washington.

The position of Chile was disclosed
today in a memorandum from the minister of foreign affairs to American Ambassador Collier at Santiago,
and made public by the embassy here.
The memorandum, in reply to one submitted by Secretary Kellogg, suggesting that the plebiscite be suspended
for a time, declare "the government of Chile greatly deplors that it is not
in a position to receive the suggestion
to suspend immediately the plebiscite
proceedings."

Suspension Dangerous.
Such suspension, it added, "would mean a reversion to the uncertain and
dangerous situation which was ended
by the recent resolution of the plebiscite
commission. "The memorandum
argued that continuance of the proceedings which can in no way impair
the negotiations of good offices, will favor a solution, which, once it is reached even in principle, will mark
the moment to consider the suggestion
which your excellency has transmitted,
without the difficulties it offers
at the present time."

The memorandum reiterated that Chile will accept the good offices offer of the American government to negotiate for settlement of the dispute
only in the event the plebiscite is permitted to continue. Peru, on the other hand, has contended for suspension of the plebiscite, holding that it
has accepted the good offices offer
on that condition. Secretary Kellogg
has declared that this government has not been a party to any understanding that the plebiscite would be non-
operative while direct negotiations
were in progress.

Chile, in the note, expressed satisfaction with Peru's acceptance of the American offer as recognition of "its
sincere desire to look for a friendly
adjustment of the existing differences."

REGISTRATION CONTINUES FOR ARICA PLEBISCITE.

ARICA, March 28.—Registration of
voters for the Tacna-Arica plebiscite,
begun Saturday, continues despite the refusal of the Peruvian government to recognize continuance of the plebiscite.
Proceeding the meeting of the plebiscite
commission Sunday Peruvian
members sent a note to General Les-
sier, the neutral head of the commission, refusing to participate in any discussion of suspension of the plebiscite.
The Peruvian members take the position that the matter of settling
the Tacna-Arica dispute is now in the hands of the United States government.

The plebiscite commission took
no action on suspension of the registration. The Chilean members maintain that registration of voters must continue while settlement of the dispute in Washington gets under way.
The Peruvian members refuse to accept this viewpoint and meanwhile
members of the plebiscite commission are looking to Washington for
a way out of the difficulty.

BAPTIST REVIVALS ENTER THIRD WEEK

The city-wide pre-Easter evangelistic campaign in which more than 50 Atlanta Baptist churches are participating, entered its third and last week Sunday, marked with large congregations and a concerted move on the part of religious leaders to make the week an outstanding one in Atlanta religious history.

Throughout the ensuing week mid-day services will be held at 12:15 o'clock daily at the Peachtree Arcade, at which time noted Baptist evangelists and speakers will deliver addresses in an effort to reach business people who will at this time each day be able to attend during the lunch hour period.

Services will continue in the majority of the Baptist churches of Atlanta at 3:30 o'clock and 7:30 o'clock daily. New Antioch and Jackson Hill Baptist churches opened revival campaigns Sunday and large congregations attended. Sermons were by Rev. Broadus Jones and Rev. T. P. Trimble. A. J. Redd had charge of the song service at New Antioch.

Sunday also marked the close of successful evangelistic efforts in many Baptist churches. As the result of meetings many conversions were reported and more than 600 persons

BIBLE STUDENTS HEAR LECTURE BY C. A. WISE

"Comfort for the People" was the subject of a lecture given Sunday afternoon by C. A. Wise, well-known Bible lecturer, at the local branch of the International Bible Students' association. An immense crowd heard the speaker.

"No more comforting message," he said, "could be given to the peoples of earth today than that spoken by the Prophet Isaiah. Death has been the great enemy of man. When God began the execution of His judgment against Adam and Eve, He drove them out of Eden, so that they could not share access to the fruit of the trees in Eden; and He set cherubim and a flaming sword turning in every direction to keep them away from Eden."—Genesis 3:24.

Have become affiliated with the Baptist churches. The first sermon of the pre-Easter series to the Arcade was delivered by Rev. Richard K. Redwine, who is conducting a campaign at Oakland City Baptist church. He spoke on "The Triumphal Entry" Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The initial meeting was well attended.

Dr. W. A. Shelton, of Emory university, will speak at the 12:15 o'clock service today on the subject, "The Temple Cleansed." Themes of the addresses throughout the week deal with the story of Christ's life just before the Crucifixion. In addition to the sermons, special musical programs have been arranged in many churches.

OWN-A-HOME PLANS NEAR COMPLETION

With preparations for the most elaborate and complete exhibition of home furniture, construction materials and fixtures well under way, leaders of the Own-a-Home exposition, which will open for a week's show April 5 at the city auditorium declared Sunday the more and better displays than have ever been booked for any similar exhibition in Atlanta, already are assured and that requests for additional space keep coming in.

Every effort to present patrons the most modern and very latest comfort of modern science is being expended in the interest of the show, and the auditorium is being decked in gay colors to add a touch of home luxury. Scores of booths will be erected during this week and when the opening night arrives everything will be in spick and span condition.

Several added attractions in Clyde C. Stogner, director, that admission will be free to all comers, have been added this year. Included among these are the free motion picture shows which will be a part of the daily features, and an orchestral concert every afternoon and night of the entire week's run.

Letters continue to arrive at headquarters of the exposition at the Silver

'Model City' Features Big Benefit Shows

Kemp's "Model City," shown above, is one of the interesting features of Rubin & Cherry Shows which come to Atlanta for a week's engagement, beginning next Saturday. The engagement is under auspices of Atlanta Macabees. Proceeds will go to the order's industrial fund.

building during the week-end—all predicting the greatest array of exhibits of home supplies ever seen in the entire south.

Special exhibits will show the strides of modern science for the past year in providing new and easily operated conveniences. Included among these are new electrically-iced refrigerators, which will be exhibited by three leading concerns of the country, specially constructed radios and many others.

Atlanta home lovers in the past have crowded the auditorium to see the displays even when there was an admission charge, but this year there will be none and preparations to cater for record crowds are being made. Hundreds from surrounding cities are expected to come to the city to see the show in addition to those who live here. Estimates of the attendance are placed at about 200,000 for the week.

BLACKMAN HEALTH RESORT OPENS TODAY

A notable addition to Atlanta's list of health resorts will be made today when the Blackman Health resort at 1824 Peachtree road is formally opened.

Sixty-four guest rooms are provided, each with a private bath as well as a comfortable lounge, opening through French doors upon an attractive terrace, a modern dining room, club room and every other facility for the comfort of patrons.

Built in the Georgia architectural mode, the building presents a spacious appearance, with wide verandas at the front and back, well-kept grounds and the most modern equipment obtainable.

The model kitchen provides mechanical refrigerator and complete equipment for electric and steam cooking, while the basement contains two large hydrotherapy departments, with commodious equipment for baths and comfortable rest rooms and massage booths.

The north end of the main floor is occupied by offices, clinical and X-ray laboratories and the electric therapy department.

Decorations in the building were designed by V. W. Shepard, while Hentz, Reid and Adler are the architects, with Frances S. Marlow, of New York, as consulting architect.

The building was erected by the Turner Construction company, of New York and Atlanta.

The model kitchen provides mechanical refrigerator and complete equipment for electric and steam cooking, while the basement contains two large hydrotherapy departments, with commodious equipment for baths and comfortable rest rooms and massage booths.

The north end of the main floor is occupied by offices, clinical and X-ray laboratories and the electric therapy department.

NO DECISION MADE ON "WAR GUILT"

New York, March 28.—(AP)—Insufficient time has elapsed since the world war to determine the relative guilt of the nations involved, in the opinion of a special committee appointed by the world alliance for international friendship through the churches to consider the question.

The committee made public its attitude today in a letter to Dr. Kapler, president of the German Evangelical Alliance of Churches, who had requested a statement of the attitude of the world alliance toward the submission of the question of "war guilt" to a formal investigation.

The special committee decided that the consideration of the question at this time would be "unwise, unfortunate and fruitless."

This decision was approved by the executive council of the American council of the world alliance.

An official investigation of war guilt might seriously jeopardize the movement toward more friendly relations "now proceeding at such a gratifying pace," the special committee stated.

The Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Brown headed the committee, which included the Rev. Dr. Russell Bowie, Dr. Hamilton Holt, Dr. Frederick Lynch and Mrs. Edgerton Parsons.

The survey included accidents by automobile, trolley car, railway train and motorcycle.

The outstanding accident of the week was on Monday night near Columbus when Sergeant Charles D. Causey and Private John Samanovich, attached to Fort Benning, were killed when their automobile plunged down a 30-foot embankment.

Corporal J. R. Reichburg was slightly injured in the wreck.

Another accident near Columbus took another life when Arthur Dukes was killed in an automobile crash on Friendship road in the vicinity of Buena Vista.

T. G. Lambert, Coweta county planter, died during the week of injuries sustained the week before when the automobile in which he and his brother were riding was wrecked by a train at Grantville.

Dr. J. P. Greer, of Thomasville, died in an Atlanta hospital Monday of injuries received when he was struck by a trolley car there on Saturday.

Joseph Finn, of Detroit, who was hit by an automobile on the streets of Atlanta Monday died a day later in a hospital in the capital city.

The other three deaths were in scattered portions of the state and details of them were not available last night.

The survey included accidents by automobile, trolley car, railway train and motorcycle.

GRIFFIN MAN HELD ON MURDER COUNT

Macon, Ga., March 22.—(AP)—Luis Denham, 29, of Griffin, Ga., was tonight held on a charge of murder by a coroner's jury that investigated the killing early this morning of Vaughn Murch, 38, of Battle Creek, Mich., advance man with a carnival company.

According to evidence produced to the coroner's jury Denham, also employed by the carnival company, had been drinking and Murch had told him to go to bed, so that he would be in shape to help move the equipment to Atlanta on Sunday night. Denham drew a razor and cut Murch's throat, causing the latter's death two hours later in a hospital.

Denham was a member of the 151st machine gun battalion in the world war and according to members of his own company he ran amuck in France, shot up his own billet, was court-martialed and sentenced to Leavenworth, but the judge advocate general's office discovered an error in the proceedings and ordered him returned to his company and he finished the war and received an honorable discharge.

The police announced that Denham admitted his war record as told by his mates.

At the inquest held this afternoon witnesses testified that after Denham refused to take orders, Murch placed his hands on the shoulders of Denham and again urged him to go to bed.

Denham slashed at Murch with a razor, cutting his jugular vein, the witnesses said, and then Denham ran and Murch trailed him, with blood spurting from the open wound. Murch fell after taking a few steps, however. Showmen stopped Denham and the police took him into custody.

Denham joined the show at Albany two weeks ago. He said that he has a mother and several brothers and sisters in Griffin.

At the jail Denham said that he was sorry that he killed Murch, but he contended that the advance man struck him twice in the face, knocking him down, and he said that he was under Murch when he used the razor.

$3,000,000 FUND REPORTED RAISED TO FIGHT MEASURE

New York, March 22.—(AP)—An alleged fund of $3,000,000 to fight the Capper-Kelly resale price bill, now before congress, was said to have been raised by fake "charity sale" organizations in a statement issued today by Edmund A. Whittier, secretary of the American Fair Trade league.

The statement asserted that the organizations interested in defeating the bill were those which advertised well-known trade-marked goods at a cut price as "bait" for unscrupulous and untrade-marked merchandise.

"The present law provides an opportunity for ill-gotten gains, and they do not want it changed," he said.

The statement said that many of the important trade associations had adopted resolutions supporting the bill, as had women's clubs and consumers' organizations.

Because of traffic congestion in large cities of France, many firms are reinstating horse-drawn delivery service.

"GET" COLDS QUICK! DON'T WAIT FOR CHILLS

When you feel a cold beginning, take hot lemonade. Then go straight to bed, under warm covers. You'll perspire, but in nine cases out of ten the cold will go. In the morning there won't be a trace.

Millions profit in untold ways by this measure of prevention.

If you are sneezing, if you ache, take hot lemonade tonight, and cheat the cold. It's the cheapest, simplest, surest, safest way.

Just squeeze the juice of a California lemon in glass or cup of hot water. The effectiveness of hot lemonade is due to more than its heat. Add sugar if you wish.

Ask for California lemons, the tart, juicy, practically seedless kind. They make the most effective lemonade for colds.—Adv.

BACKACHE GIVEN QUICK RELIEF

Tried simple home treatment and pain stops

An aching back is often the result of tired, over-strained muscles, and can be given quick and complete relief with a very simple home treatment.

"I had such a backache I didn't know what to do," writes a New York woman. "I looked through my medicine cabinet to see if I could find something to help me—and there was a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. I used it, and in half an hour I was better. The next day I went to a big engagement party. Now, when anyone has a pain, I say 'use Sloan's.'"

The marvelous effectiveness of Sloan's is due to the stimulating effect that it has upon the circulation. Straight to the sick, aching tissues, it sends a healing tide of fresh new blood—clears out the trouble—kills the pain.

So pleasant and clean to use, too. You don't even have to rub. Just pat it on gently and you will get immediate results. All druggists—35 cents.

65,000 PEOPLE SEE "HOME BEAUTIFUL"

located at $12,500; located at Dartmouth avenue, in Avondale; built by Charles H. Black, home builder, and loaned through Avondale Estates.

Valued at $9,500; located at 8 Kingston avenue, in Avondale; built by Wagar & Co., home builders, and loaned by Avondale Estates.

Homes Are Models.
The homes were built for families of varying sizes and each one carefully planned as to convenience and comfort, even to the smallest detail. None of the little individual touches which make a home a home was left out.

Distinct in type, each home presents a "homey" and "livable" appearance from the Spanish type to the large English style. No matter in which order the homes were visited, it seems that the last one visited is the most attractive.

Throngs at Avondale.
G. F. Willis, owner of Avondale Estates, was delighted with the attendance and the general interest displayed by the great throngs at Avondale in the "Home Beautiful" exhibit there. Five of the nine homes are in this $5,000,000 development.

Officials estimated the attendance Sunday at these five homes as exceeding 25,000. Last year three officers were needed to keep the traffic from becoming congested. This year there are eight. So large were the crowds that at all homes during the afternoon, it became necessary to close the doors, forming waiting lines for admission. Doors were opened every 15 minutes. All the houses were crowded within one hour after opening time and by 3 o'clock the streets were jammed with autos and it became necessary to force late comers to wait for admission. Many of them passed their time in viewing and admiring Lake Avondale, which now is practically completed.

Interest of visitors centered to a large extent upon the large home of English type architecture at No. 5 Avondale avenue, which was built by Wagar & Co., and furnished by Stephen Philibosian, Inc.

Spanish Bungalows.
Then they found new things to wonder over and to win the admiration of a beautiful Spanish bungalow at 32 Dartmouth, which was erected by Charles H. Black, also furnished by Philibosian, with draperies by Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company. Then there was the attractive home, of Dutch colonial style, at 3 Berkeley road, built by the Avondale Estate.

This house is an exact replica of the residence on the Hudson river of Fitz Von Plank, which was built 200 years ago.

Although not so elaborate or expensive as the three homes already mentioned, 40 Dartmouth drive, built by Wagar & Co., came in for its full share of praise. Last, but not least, there was a charming little Italian home at 8 Kingston avenue, built by Wagar & Co. In the last two homes much interest was shown in that the pleasing effects were obtained at more moderate prices than in the first three.

Decorators and furnishers of the five Avondale homes follow:

The draperies and Oriental rugs are supplied through the courtesy of J. M. High company; all of the furniture and domestic rugs are being loaned by Duffee-Freeman Furniture company.

Bric-a-brac by Dragon Lure; electrical equipment by Georgia Railway and Power company; pictures and books by Cole Book and Art company; linens by J. B. Fallaize company; Kelinator, home refrigeration, by Duffee-Freeman; Oil-O-Matic burner, by Brumelow Heating company, and silverware by Maier & Berkele.

Brookwood Home.
Another English type home was much admired was the "Home Beautiful" at 44 Brookwood drive, Brookwood Hills. Entrance is through the living room, with the dining room on the right. Back of the living room is the library. The breakfast room and kitchen are on the first floor, with four bedrooms and two baths on the second floor.

This house is furnished with draperies, furniture and floor covering by Stephen Philibosian, Inc., and cooperating with this firm is Maier & Berkele, who will provide silverware; Binder & Co., pictures; J. B. Fallaize company, linens, and the Georgia Railroad from a reliable source that these costumes have been insured for $100,000.

Settings for the Follies also are being specially constructed and expectations are that they will excel in beauty, originality and picturesqueness anything ever previously offered in a similar performance here. Spectacular stage effects, humorous skits and novel dance numbers all will combine to make it the exceptionally interesting affair it always is.

To offset reports that several blocks of tickets have already been reserved or allotted, Mrs. Ryman, chairman of the ticket committee, announced that "first come, first served" will be the rigid rule this year for selling tickets to any or all performances. First-night tickets will be placed on sale at 8 o'clock this morning at Muse's main store. There will be 650 tickets at $5 each, while several hundred balcony tickets will be disposed of at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2. Tickets for ensuing performances will be placed on sale later, prices being from 50 cents to $2.50. No more than 20 tickets will be sold a single buyer.

Following the Monday night performance a dinner-dance with attending cabaret features will be given by the Junior league at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. Reservations for tables may be made at the hotel or by communicating with Mrs. W. E. Campbell, Jr. Arrangements for this post-premiere entertainment are also in charge of Ned Wayburn, who promises several unique features on this occasion.

assistant, Max Olney, are grooming participants with a view to providing an entertainment which will set a new mark in Follies history in Atlanta.

Thirty-six young women and twenty-four young men, leaders in Atlanta society circles, are taking the utmost advantage of the two weeks remaining before the premiere. Rehearsals are taking place morning, afternoon and night under the watchful tutelage of Max Olney.

Striking costumes which will greet the eyes of first-nighters at the Atlanta theater April 12 now are being displayed in windows at Muse's and the playhouse stores. And, according to rumors, information has come

Oglethorpe Series Creates Interest In Bulldogs' Camp

Georgia University Baseball Team Hopes To Avenge Two Defeats Suffered Last Year at Hands of Stormy Petrels.

BY MARCUS BRYANT.

Athens, Ga., March 28.—(Special.)—Three wins and two losses is the record behind the Georgia Bulldogs as they meet the Oglethorpe Petrels here Monday and Tuesday in the first southern college games on the 1928 schedule. The Bulldogs returned Sunday from a trip, playing Auburn and the Fort Benning infantry school and losing two of three games.

Making a clean sweep of the opening series here this week against the Oglethorpe Petrels, the Bulldogs Wednesday lost to the Auburn Plainsmen, the second of the series being called off due to rain. The first encounter, with the Petrels in the lineup, resulted in a loss for the Red and Black and the soldiers lost, 3 to 2.

The Oglethorpe series is expected to prove one of the most interesting of the early season. Added interest centers in the fact that the Bulldogs enter determined to even last year's games, when the Petrels were victorious in the two engagements after the closing series with Tech.

Both the Bulldogs and Petrels have played the Ohio State Buckeyes. The Bulldogs won the first game, 8 to 2, and the final game, 8 to 1. The Petrels were held to a 5-to-3 deadlock after 11 innings in their first game and wallowed the Buckeyes, 10 to 1 in the second game.

ATLANTA FIVE PLAYS OMAHA ON WEDNESDAY

Tech High School basketball, champions of Georgia, will meet the quintet representing Omaha, Neb., at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in their first game of the national interscholastic tournament at Chicago, according to dispatches received here Sunday night.

The other Georgia entry—Fort Valley—will clash with Cheyenne, Wyo., at 1 o'clock this afternoon in their first round match.

The Tech High athletes, chaperoned by Coach Tolbert, left Atlanta at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning for their first bid for national honors. The party included two full teams.

The Smiths have been working hard since defeating Vienna for the state championship a couple of weeks ago, and are in splendid shape for the big tournament.

Coach Tolbert plans to use the same line-up that made a clean sweep of the games this year, and the starting guard Wednesday probably will find Captain Tubby Allen and Buster Cook at forwards, Harry Gilman at center and Sidney Gordin at Harry Griffin holding down the guards. Others taking the trip are Armin Waugh, Benny Hawkins, Jack Warner, Joe Stearns and John Davidson.

WEEK OFFERS FULL SLATE OF BASEBALL

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

Along with the first robin, the first mocking bird, and other harbingers of spring, this week comes the first real baseball for Atlanta. The week is crisscrossed with attractive games, both from the standpoint of the amateur fan and those who follow the fortunes of the professionals.

The first professional game of the year will be staged at Spiller's field Thursday afternoon when the Cleveland Indians, under the management of the famous Tris Speaker, play the Toronto team, of the International League. The famous Sewell brothers, both graduates of the University of Georgia, are members of the Cleveland club. Both Luke and Joe were star athletes as members of Alabama's teams.

The colleges will swing into action on Friday, both Oglethorpe and Georgia Tech offering counter attractions and both from northern colleges.

Stewart, who will play for the Toronto team, of the International League. The famous Sewell brothers, both graduates of the University of Georgia, are members of the Cleveland club. Both Luke and Joe were star athletes as members of Alabama's teams.

Twenty Years of American Golf

BY JIM BARNES

(American Champion, Player, Teacher, Student of Golf.)

(Copyright, 1908, by North American Newspaper Alliance and The Constitution.)

CHAPTER X.
If the season of 1915 was in a way disappointing, so far as winning went, luck was with me the following year, which made up for the lean one that preceded it. I started the year by winning the north and south open championship at Pinehurst, beating out Tom Kerrigan and Clarence Hackney, who tied for second place.

This tournament was my first real experience with sand greens and they proved very interesting. The putting went surprisingly well, for one thing.

Then, too, on a freshly drugged sand green one can actually trace the path of the ball from the time it is struck to where it stops. More than that, it is generally possible to see the path the clubhead makes in striking the ball, and by studying this carefully, one can tell what is wrong when a bad putt is made.

In the national championship, played that year at the Minikahda Club of Minneapolis, I finished four strokes back of the winner, who turned out to be Chick Evans. Later he won the amateur championship as well, and so had the distinction of being the first and only player in this country who has ever held both titles the same year. Chick's winning total was 280, which was—and still is—the lowest total ever scored in the championship.

Up to the time that I finished, my score was next best, and as Evans, being an amateur, was not eligible for money prizes, I hoped for a good money prize, even if it didn't carry the championship with it. But in the end Jack Hutchinson beat me out. Jack was a late starter and came in well almost at the last, with a great round of 68. I started the round leading him by five strokes, but he picked up six on me in this one round, and closed out first prize. This was the first 68 ever scored in the national championship.

Later on that season I managed to square accounts with Jack. That was in the professional golfers' championship, which was played that year for the first time. The Sinyaw Country Club of New York was the scene of the tournament and Jack and I met in the final match. It was a nip-and-tuck battle from the first to the last hole, but in the end I won. I found myself two down with three to play, but managed to win the last three holes in a row and won the match by one hole.

Jack and I have played lots of golf together, sometimes as partners, sometimes opposing each other, and I want to say that there are and have been some more brilliant players than this same Scott. Yet he has never been able to win our national championship. He has never yet caught luck with him at the right time. And a player does have to be lucky to win a golf championship.

Must Have Luck.
I don't mean, of course, that luck and nothing else with it will win, and I may also, after there have been few, if any, fluke champions. There have been some who have won in one year, who never before or afterward even threatened to win again, and this applies to both amateurs and professionals. But if you are a mind to check back over the circumstances of their winning, you are more than apt to find that they were playing very fine golf indeed to win in that particular tournament.

Chiefly what is meant by golf luck is the good fortune to find yourself playing at the top of your game at the right time. Generally the means striking the tournament a little before your best, but striking it as you are climbing to the top of your best form. This is one of the reasons why it is hard to lay so generally said that the medalist in a tournament rarely wins the chief match play prize. The chances are, if he is really good, that he will lose it. The top of his game, he has come to the peak a little too soon when he wins.

Outfielders Aplenty.
Dobbs has a galaxy of outfielders and it is downright puzzling to pick the four he will start with. Seniors, Mike Jones, was sent here by the Senators, and looks good for the entire summer. Then there are John Roser, who slugged 25 homers at Baltimore last year, Babe Gange, a hold-over from the tail-end of 1925; Sammy West, ditto; Ernie Nietzke, a hitting and fielding find from Michigan (Ontario) last year; and Horace Long, a boy who cut up considerably with his bat in the latter part of last summer. Jones, Gange, Roser, Martin and Nietzke look awfully good, but then so do West and Long. The youthfulness of the latter pair may work against them, however.

For catchers, Johnny has the powerful and bulging Yarnan, Mickey O'Brien from Decatur, and Pete Cooper, who hit a good many points over .300 in the Sally league last year. They seem to rate in the order named. A pair of youngsters, Nelson and Goggans, shouldn't be around after the first slide despite the fact that they are promising. Both need more seasoning.

Need Pitching.
It was miserable flinging that wrecked Baron hopes of 1925, and Dobbs is going to do much calculating on this year's mound crew. At present the staff appears fairly promising, but capable additions would not be sniffed at. Dick Nietzke is the only 1925 veteran on the list, although Grier Friday was here part of the campaign. Then there is Red Schilling, the portly fast-baller, late of St. Orleans. Andy Rush, who won 20 games in the Eastern loop in 1925, looks and pitches like he is set and primed to remain through the warm weather.

Ralph Judd, a stocky youth who pitched Hamilton, of the Michigan-Ontario loop, to a pennant in 1925; Bob Lowthian, picked up from Jonesboro at the tail-end of last summer, and Ralph Stewart, Cotton States star, look the best of the younger generation, and two of the three are expected to survive the opening-day pruning. A real addition was furnished by the Washington club last week when Raymond Joyce, ex-Omaha flash, and an extremely capable right-hander, was turned over to Dobbs. He is expected to fill a regular berth. Vein Gregg and Arnold Stone, both of whom had been counted upon, failed to report. More help is expected from Washington when the Senators pass through for an exhibition tilt shortly.

To Be in Fight.
If Dobbs can collect a pitching staff from what is expected from the Senators and the crew in camp—and it appears now that he is pretty well fixed—then the Barons aren't going to be anybody's front steps. There's a hustle and dash among the athletes that was noticeably lacking in 1925. The boys are not only playing baseball these days, but thinking considerably about same. The outfielders, better than it has in years, the infield is strong defensively which ever way it turns out, and fairly well fixed in a batting way. The catching will take care of itself with Yarnan and O'Brien showing well. That leaves the hurling X quantity, as they used to say in algebra.

Cruickshank, Walker
Cop Pinehurst Match
Pinehurst, N. C., March 28.—(P.)—Bobby Cruickshank and Cyril Walker, former open champion, defeated Arthur ("Ducky") Yates, holder of the north and south amateur title, and T. Russell Brown, Malletts Bay, Vermont, in an exhibition best ball golf match this afternoon, 3 and 2. The professionals might have won by a wider margin, but for the fact that several short putts were missed. Cruickshank had the best ball of 72.

MAJOR SCOTT BUSY.
Major Trammell Scott, Atlanta's premier organizer of amateur and semi-pro baseball teams, has formed three leagues during the past few weeks, all of which will be ready to swing into action on April 17, set as the opening date for all Atlanta's amateurs. Committees now are at work completing plans for a monster downtown parade which will feature opening ceremonies.

PERRIN LEAGUE FORMED.
The latest work of Major Scott is the Perrin league, composed of eight well-balanced clubs. Teams in this circuit will be Southern Bell, Atlanta Terra Cotta, Southern Railway, Red Seal, Oakland City, Prep Class, Redskins and Woodward avenue. The circuit will be the fastest of the season.

ATLANTA LEAGUE READY.
The six clubs of the Atlanta league also are set for the opening. Making up this loop are clubs representing the Southern Bell, Spinks, Pullman company, Post Office, Fox Manufacturing company, Giddens and the Fulton Bed company.

LONDOS HERE TONIGHT FOR ZBYSZKOBOUT

Stanislav Zbyszko, who meets Jimmy Londos, the favorite of the Greeks, in a unique match at the city auditorium Tuesday night, will arrive in Atlanta tonight, it was announced Sunday by Promoter John Paxos.

Bill Lewis, who meets the Masked Marvel in the preliminary bout, checked in Sunday, while Londos, the "Masked Marvel" and Dick Davis, the foe of Davis, in the semi-windup, already is here, having elected to train in a local gym.

Advance demands for tickets have led Promoter Paxos to believe that the show Tuesday night is going to be the best that Atlanta has had in the way of attendance. A check from Pete Zrakos, of Spartanburg, S. C., cinched a block of 50 seats. Zrakos reported that he was bringing a delegation of Greeks from his city and that the boys would be augmented by other mat fans.

Zbyszko, in accepting the Atlanta match, held firm for his own terms, which were that he would throw Londos twice in an hour or be considered the loser. This handicap gives Londos an excellent chance for victory, but, judging from Londos' pre-bout talk, he is not going to concern himself principally with staying an hour with the famous Pole. Rather, Londos has declared that he is going out to win on his own hook and in that endeavor will resort frequently to the head-lock, his favorite and most effective hold.

Zbyszko, a master of all of the tricks that are known to a wrestler, probably will try for victory with the flying mare and the toe hold, which he has developed to perfection.

Davis and Paxos are expected to put on a great show in the semi-windup. Paxos is the equal of Davis, and has trained himself to a fine point for this bout. Davis, known as "Rough Richard," because of his violent actions on the mat, will have every reason to extend himself to the limit in his bout with Paxos.

Tickets for the show are on sale at the Piedmont Hotel, Chess' place and the Routsos cafe.

Augusta Exhibition Won by Bill Tilden
Augusta, Ga., March 28.—(P.)—William Tilden, 11, defeated A. H. Chapin, Jr., here today, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2, in an exhibition match which was a prelude to the South Atlantic tennis tournament which opens on the Augusta Country club courts Monday morning.

In a doubles exhibition match, Tilden and his protégé, Sandy Healy, lost to Chapin and Sam Warner, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

INSTALLMENT XXXI. A BIT OF UGLINESS.

Hilary, who was so deeply touched and moved that he had forgotten to be embarrassed, took Celia's hand gently from her face and held it tight in both of his.

"Dearest Celia," he said, his own voice unsteady, "dearest, generous child... I never loved you so much... 'Ashamed'... I wish you would feel half as proud of yourself as I feel of you... But believe me, you take this too seriously. It's only..."

Celia drew her hand away.

"I will never ask it," she said, her voice still almost inaudible, but full of determination. "I will never accept it."

Her face averted from him, she went swiftly from the room.

He made a movement to follow her, then reconsidered it.

This was the queerest of Celia with a vengeance. What on earth was he to do? Had he simply spoiled her life by trying to shelter it? Her obstinacy, he knew from long experience, was colossal. And popped into his mind, oddly enough, the memory of her refusal on different occasions to tell him what person it was, in fiction or history, that she wanted to be.

If he could only find out who this person was, he felt sure he would have the main clue to Celia's inner being. In any event she had given him a glimpse of it herself that evening. There was fire there and he had thought her all frost.

O'Shea sprang before him.

Well, O'Brien was right. He had had the intuition to divine the sacred fire, where all those other fools, himself among them, had been deceived. He disliked O'Shea even more for this, but if she loved O'Shea she would marry him. He would set her free in spite of her generous qualms. He was glad to find out that she was even finer than he himself had guessed.

He almost thought that if he had met her when he was young—but here he laughed, picturing a toddling Celia led by the altar.

"Your car's waiting, sir," said a discreet voice. "I've taken out your bags."

"Thanks, I'll come at once."

All the way to the station he pictured Celia from her childhood up as his real daughter. How pleasant it would have been, and how it would have simplified everything! Then no hateful memories of a father

Her face averted from him, she went swiftly from the room. Brutal and drunken would have tormented her... "I could hear him in my own voice."... How pitiful that had been... Yes, she should have her freedom and her rightful happiness, willy-nilly. He would think out the way to convince her.

Celia, once alone in her room, locked the door mechanically and then stood near it, pressing her hands to her eyes and throat which ached with the tears she wished to shed, but could not.

The last time that she had wept had been when her father killed a puppy that some neighbors had given her. The little creature, confident of kindness in all beings, had ambled into Gibbs' studio, and begun to play with the face of his shoe. A violent kick had sent it against a corner of the "throne," breaking its back.

Celia's eyes and throat ached more than ever as she recalled its glaring stare, and feeble effort to lick her hand, as it died. Its furry body and comma-like tail had looked so pitifully limp, and its pointed teeth, pinkened with blood, for the kick had been on its head, showed in such a painful little grin.

She had taken the small corpse to bed with her and cried over it all night. Since then she had never cried over anything. When she felt she longed to, no tears would come, only that needle-like stabbing in her eyes and the constricted pain in her throat.

As this memory of her father came back to her she shivered again.

"I hope that he is suffering very much somewhere," she said softly, comforted a little by hearing her ardent wish uttered in words.

Celia would certainly not have made a good Christian.

She was dreadfully hurt that Hilary should have thought her ignoble and ungrateful enough to demand such a sacrifice of both his dignity and probity for her sake.

It was only that day that she had learned how most modern American divorces are obtained. She had always thought that in a marriage such as hers and Hilary's, divorce would be a simple matter, the dissolving by mutual consent of a contract which had no reality. She had never heard the menacing term "conclusion."

That day during a visit, in a moment of idle curiosity, after hearing that "Lily Parkins had actually worn an engagement ring from the man who became her second husband before she was divorced from her first," she had asked old Mrs. Hinton:

"How do they get their divorces so easy?"

Mrs. Hinton glanced at her a little curiously, but answered in a matter of fact tone:

"O, it's all done in the same way. The husband is seen about with some coquette, and the wife brings the divorce against him. American men are notorious for spoiling their womenkind, you know," she had ended with a dry cackle.

"But they can't all be got in the same way," Celia had protested. "When there's some other good reason, people couldn't possibly want to take such a low, false way as that."

"Cruelty! Incompatibility!" suggested the old lady. "One's hard to prove, and the other threadbare, and not very efficacious." She considered a moment.

"I'd better give her a hint," she thought and then spoke:

"As for getting a divorce on the plea of never having lived together as man and wife—that's the most odious of all, my dear. I can't enter into details, but you might read it up if you're interested in the subject—a sensitive, refined woman would much rather go on being married only in name than submit to such an ordeal—and have the world know about it into the bargain."

Celia, who had more quickness than people gave her credit for, guessed in a flash what this ordeal might be. It made her feel cold and sick with repulsion, and it also made her loathe Mrs. Hinton with extreme vehemence. She felt the old woman had meant it as a warning, having divined the relationship between Hilary and herself, but she did not take the warning as a kindness, only as a gross and vulgar liberty.

Nothing of these emotions showed in her face or manner.

She merely said in her cool, detached way:

"Life is rather ugly at times, isn't it?" and rose to go. She meant in future to see as little of Mrs. Hinton as possible.

Walking rapidly home, she wondered all the way how she had managed to continue calling at intervals on this unpleasant old woman without realizing how violently she disliked her.

And now this evening's interview with Hilary had completed her discomfort. She felt thoroughly miserable.

"How I wish I could cry," she said aloud, going over to the open window.

The mild May air wandered in, scented partly by the wet grass in the park, partly by the gasoline from passing motors. The glare of their lamps flashed on the lower branches of the trees, picking out every leaf and turning them to a crude green like the green of stage foliage. Far away, beyond the domed tretoops, she could see the lights of the plaza, like the lights of a city built upon a hill.

"How I wish I were in the country," she sighed again. The gasoline had overpowered the fresh, grassy scent; and she reflected how old ladies of Mrs. Hinton's type have a mental atmosphere like gasoline that quite overpowers all fragrant thought.

A tapping came on the locked door.

"Is that you, nurse?" called Celia.

Then she smiled dryly to herself.

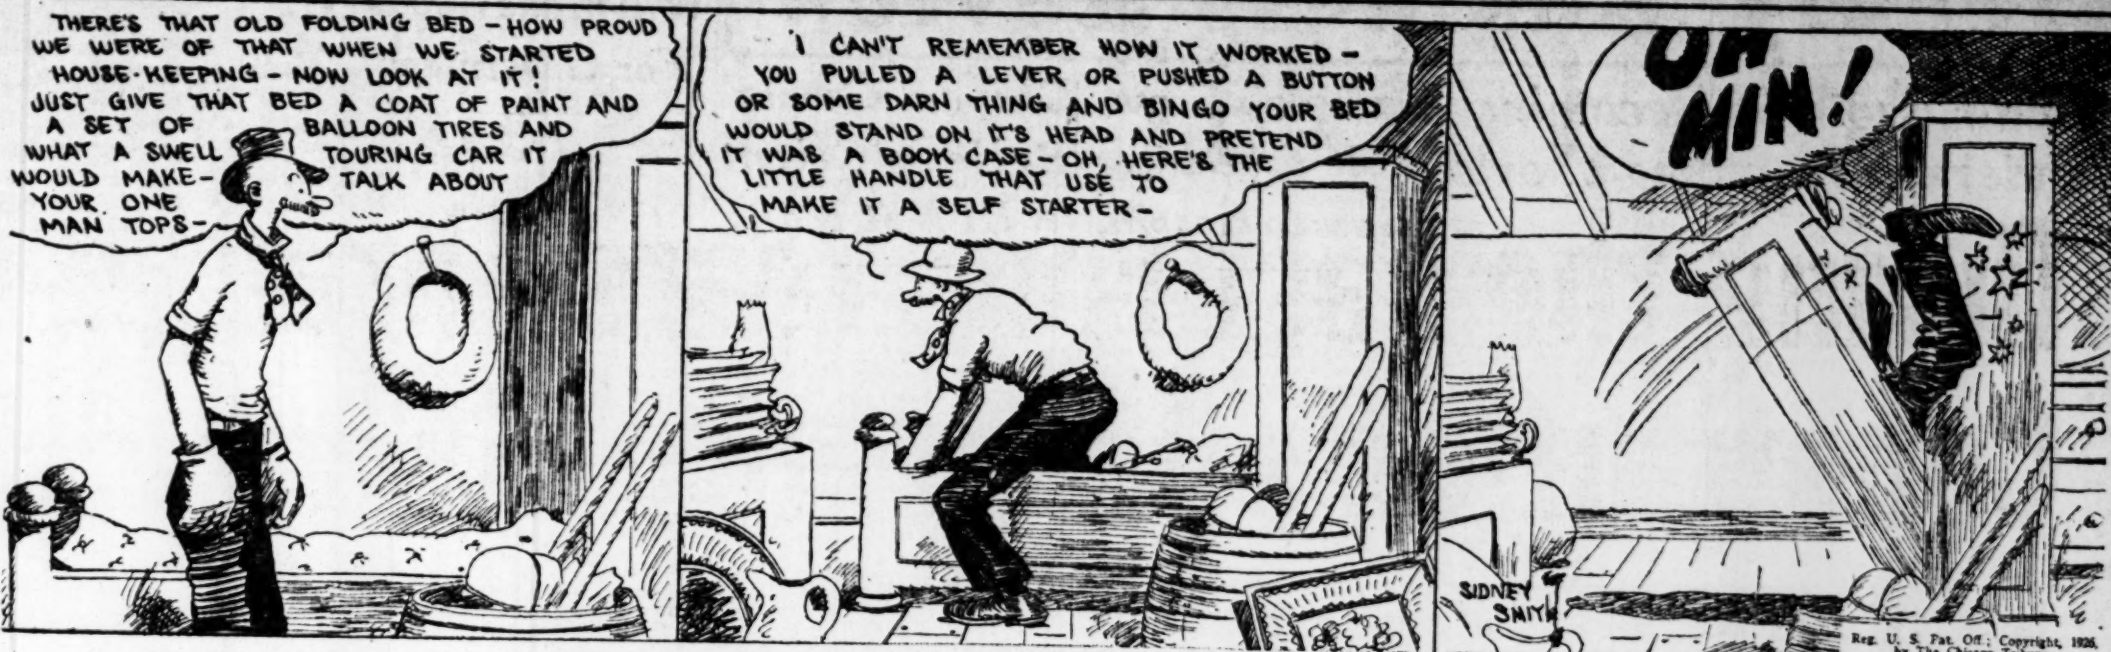

"I sound like Juliet," she thought. "But there aren't any Julietes, only her nurses, like old Mrs. Hinton, reveling in obscene thoughts and innuendoes."

"Yes, miss," said the voice of Donovan.

The Day in Finance

By
R. L. BARNUM

New York, March 27.—Every once in so often speculative Wall street gets in the frame of mind where it thinks the stock market is no longer a trustworthy mirror of the general business and financial situation and outlook. At such times some of our industrial and financial leaders as well as stock traders throw past experience into the discard. Recently Wall street has been saying that the stock market and general trade must be judged separately. It now appears, however, that the time is not far off when Wall street will again admit that there is a close connection between the movement of stock market prices and the trend of general trade.

Late in October of last year, general trade was showing slow but steady improvement from summer dullness. The slowing down in trade last summer did not go as far as it did in the corresponding months of 1924 and although the country was still buying raw and finished goods on hand-to-mouth basis, the outlook around the close of last October was much more promising than for the same period of the previous year.

Late in October of last year traders in the stock market realized that the country was on a safe and sound basis. It was realized that as a result of easy money and good business compared with the rest of the world, the stock market had had a long period of advancing prices. No boom was then expected in general trade and the stock market was expected to reflect discrimination between individual shares that had gone too high in view of earnings and dividends and those that had not gone high enough.

Change Occurs.

Almost overnight, however, at the close of last October, a change occurred both in the stock market and in general trade. On October 23, speaking to a large gathering of steel and iron manufacturers at the regular meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, Chairman Gary of the United States Steel corporation, made a prediction which was instantly flashed in all directions. He said that from his viewpoint this country was on the eve of a period of great prosperity. He then predicted that before the next meeting of the institute in May iron and steel manufacturers would be turning away from business.

On October 23, shortly before Mr. Gary made his prediction, steel common was selling at 126 1/4. It advanced quickly to 128 3/4 for the day and kept on advancing until a new high record for all time was made at 129 1/4.

Before the close of October the average price of 50 representative stocks was a new high for all time at 134.51 with the market fairly boiling. In November a new high for all time was reached at 136.33. That month, however, there was a sharp break when through fear of inflation, especially in the stock market and real estate speculation, increased their redoubtable rates.

Before the close of December, however, the average stock market price was at a new high for all time at 138.21, with financial and industrial leaders throughout the country backing up Mr. Gary's prediction, at least for the first half of 1926. January of 1926 saw the average stock market price at a new high, and again as recently as February 13 a new high for all time was established at 139.10.

Market Declines.

But immediately after February 13 the stock market began to decline. There was a break of nearly 20 points by March 3, and then speculative Wall street and some financial and industrial leaders began to say that the new high had been reached. A trustworthy mirror of the general financial and industrial situation and outlook. From the low of March 3 there followed a recovery of some ten points. But then after more or less marking time another wave of liquidation started which had just carried prices below the level of March 3.

Some people in Wall street at least realize now that when the stock market began to break immediately after the new high had been reached for all time, the average price for all time was made in the average price on February 13, the ticker was saying that stock prices were too high, that too much money was being used in speculation, and that real estate speculation, instead of experiencing the predicted boom general trade had already begun to slow down and would continue in the same downward direction before a solid foundation was reached.

Judge McFarland Dies in Memphis

Memphis, Tenn., March 28.—(AP)—Judge Louis B. McFarland, ranking Confederate officer in Memphis and retired attorney, died today in his eighty-third year. He was adjutant of the Confederate post at West Point, Ga., when it was attacked by a federal force April 10, 1865. This was the last battle fought in the civil war east of the Mississippi river and occurred eight days after the surrender of General Robert E. Lee.

Judge McFarland served as brigadier general on the staffs of four commanders in chief of the United Confederate veterans.

After 41 years of law practice Judge McFarland retired in 1908.

Dr. R. A. Lapsley to-night

Central Presbyterian Church

Dr. R. A. Lapsley, retiring pastor of Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church, who some time ago accepted the pastorate of the Second Baptist church of St. Louis, preached his farewell sermon Sunday night, and will remove his family the latter part of this week to his new home.

The departing pastor, one of the south's foremost ministers, a conspicuous figure in Baptist circles and regarded as one of the most powerful orators in the church, tendered his resignation several weeks ago, and at his insistence request it was accepted. At the time he gave as his reason the "unanswerable conviction that God calls me, not to a larger field but to a more intimate ministry."

Dr. Jones has been a regular contributor to the editorial page of The Constitution, and his comment on current topics was widely read. He is a Rotarian, a member and influential worker on the executive committee of the inter-racial committee, and since coming to this city several years ago has been actively identified with civic affairs.

Dr. Jones' farewell sermon was based upon scripture reading from Matthew, "Upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." An immense congregation heard his parting sermon.

The pastor and his family will leave the city next Friday for their new home in St. Louis, his resignation becoming effective April 1. As yet a successor has not been decided upon.

Dr. Jones' father, the Rev. J. William Jones, was chaplain to General Robert E. Lee and a conspicuous figure during the war between the states. The pastor is a member of an old and distinguished Virginia family, and during his residence here has made countless friends. A brother, Dr. Carter H. Jones, is pastor of Second Baptist church.
